The 2024 Growing Season and harvest

Our senior consultant Anthony Hanson MW tasted with The Fine Wine Experience team during 2025 and 2026. These are his impressions of the vintage.

The 2024 Vintage in a Nutshell

Many magnificent and delicious wines have been made, both red and white, in spite of growing conditions having been challenging, from Spring onwards. Yields were low, but the best wines are vibrantly balanced, with fruit, freshness and length.

The 2024 Growing Season and Harvest

There was plentiful rainfall during winter 2023/24, often two days out of three, which continued during April and May. Many treatments were needed, at our conscientious growers, along with training shoots and aerating young bunches, to ward off mildew. Weather was inclement during the early-June flowering period, which contributed to crop reduction, and to grapes in any given bunch ripening at different paces. "It's a long time since we had such a bad summer" one grower remarked, but happily, the weather turned good in August, allowing grapes to build sugars, and continue their ripening. Harvesting became general in mid-September, often Pinots before the Chardonnays, under welcome, sunny skies.

The 2024 Wines

Many domaines have produced half a normal crop, or less. Given the small yields of Pinots, more whole-bunch (without de-stemming) fermentations took place, so that sufficient volumes of grapes and stalks could be loaded into vats, for effective fermentations. Combined with gentle punching down and pumping over, this has produced many aromatic wines, with charming fruitiness and gentle aftertastes. Style and quality of the whites takes us back to classic Burgundies, prior to climate change and the richer alcohol levels which have become the recent norms. These 2024 whites have brilliant fruit intensities, good balance and bright acidities.

Allocations

Several of the wines in this offer are made in very small quantities and we anticipate that demand may exceed availability. To enable us to make the fairest allocations, please let us know your requests as soon as possible. For those wines where volumes are particularly limited, allocations will be confirmed....
